Jacob was a very well-respected man, not a mean bone in his body. He knew a lot of people and everywhere he went he made a friend. He loved his Dallas Cowboys and passed that down to his kids and grandson's. Jake always reserved his Friday nights for league bowling, that was his passion. He enjoyed bowling with his kids and spouse. They created a team and went all over the place to compete in tournaments. Many of his memories are from bowling trips with his kids and wife. He enjoyed the outdoors and when he was able to he would take his family camping and fishing. His sense of humor was one thing everyone loved about him, even at his worst moments he was always making it the best. Out all his years working he made a lot of friends, his friend all the way til the end Orrin Miller was a huge part of his life. He had so many life long friends and it always made him happy to see or even be around them.

Jacob is now reunited with his beautiful.
