“ I first met Julie when she was the assistant midwife to my first home birth, but third son, Robert. We became fast friends as Amy was only two years old and they became friends. Eight years later Julie was once again at my birth which happened to land on Amy's 10th birthday when I had my one and only daughter. We stayed friends and celebrated the girls birthdays together a few different times. Julie's family helped with my middle boys dad's funeral, which wouldn't have come together without them. I drove down to Julie's dad's funeral from Salt Lake City to Vegas to show my respect from our family. When Robert found out today Julie had passed, he was really broken up, and I cried. After all Julie had been there from the moment Rob took his first breath, and through so many memories. Julie had a tremendous heart of gold! She cared so much about so many. We miss you Julie, thank you for gracing us with your love and your life!
