“ I will always remember Manuela. She had a great sense of humor, she had a quick sharp mind. She never lost that until she became very ill. She was a very independent woman, I remember asking her to join the Senior Center, but she would not do it. She preferred to be by herself with her little dog and her cats. Sometimes, she seemed lonely, but she insisted on living alone, spending time only with her family or very close friends.

I'm sure it gave her time to reflect on her life, as it neared the end. I also remember that she never went anywhere with out fixing her hair, her nail polish, her eye shadow and lipstick. She was really cute! May you rest in peace, Manuela. You will always be loved, by your family, friends, and most of all by God our Father. See you in Eternity some day.
